

Internet Explorer

All Windows applications and programs are set up with the same general layout, tailored to be as user-friendly as possible.

This example is the open Window of the Library home page. We will go over some of the parts of the window - remember that these are very similar to other applications/programs. Once you learn this part, you are on your way to learning many programs.

TITLE BAR - The title bar is generally a blue bar across the top of any window, it contains the title of the page and the name of the program. You will note that the title bar is where you find the Minimize-Maximize-Close icons present on every window.

Examples of other applications are:

Microsoft Word

Microsoft Excel
